

Links to Online Public Interest Law Resources

Below is a list of resources to help you succeed in law school, find jobs and internships, help prepare for the bar exam, learn about public interest law, and learn about managing student debt.

For three decades Equal Justice Works has created opportunities for public interest lawyers committed to building a more just society. We believe that the poorest and most vulnerable among us deserve the same access to justice and quality legal representation as the privileged. To achieve this, we offer a continuum of opportunities for law students and lawyers that provide the training and skills that enable them to provide effective representation to underserved communities and causes.

The Equal Justice Works Student Justice Center

The Student Justice Center online resource library helps law students find public interest legal work, become public interest law school leaders, and learn the information necessary to manage law school debt on a public service salary. With guides on Equal Justice Works programs, videos with tips on applying for Fellowships, and more, it's a one-stop shop.

Richard Zorza's Access to Justice Blog

Richard Zorza is an attorney who coordinates the Self Represented Litigation Network. His blog focuses on new technology to help increase access to justice for low-income clients and everyone else who needs help accessing the court system.

PSJD.org

PSJD can help you with all your public service legal career needs! Search the site to find jobs, internships, and post-graduate fellowships. PSJD also offers plenty of helpful tips and tricks to nailing interviews, a weekly newsletter, and guides to managing your student debt.

PSJD also has a blog where they discuss public interest law news and highlight awesome job opportunities!

Legal Design Lab

A collaborative project between Stanford's Law School & d.school, this site monitors the intersection between design, technology, and the law. Their mission is to train law students to develop new models of accessible legal services by using research on how to increase innovation in the law.

Law School Toolbox

Law School Toolbox is a go-to resource for all your law school needs and questions. This website offers tutoring and support, a weekly newsletter for tips to succeed in law school, outlining and exam prep, a podcast, and an online class.

Amnesty International's Human Rights Now Blog

This blog is a great way to keep up with the international world of social justice. The blog reports on global and regional conflicts, human rights abuses, politics, and lots more.

The ABA's Pro Bono & Public Service Committee

The American Bar Association's Pro Bono & Public Service tool is home to countless resources. First, check out their policies and rules for pro bono work. Next, view their resource on law school pro bono programs, or find local pro bono work in your area!

The Student Appeal

This site publishes content as an "open source online legal journal." Authors include both law students and lawyers, and topics include women in the law, legal academics, law school administration, the bar exam, legal employment, and more.

NLADA.org

Check out the National Legal Aid & Defender Association's website to learn about both civil legal aid and indigent defense. The website is intended to build the capacity of public interest attorneys, and they also house a Jobs Board!

Bar Exam Toolbox

You finished law school and now you need a resource to help you pass the bar. Bar Exam Toolbox has got you covered. Resources on this site include study tips and tutoring, workshops and courses, and a blog with plenty of tips and tricks to passing the bar.

Ms. JD

Ms. JD provides you with plenty of tools to check out! Visit their resource library and read up on women in the legal field. Learn about and apply for their fellowship and scholarships. Lastly, register for their annual conference. You can also sign up for their newsletter!

Above the Law

Did you know this popular blog has a Public Interest page? They have tips for managing student debt, finding the best law schools to get a public interest or government job, and updates on what's happening in the public interest legal world.

American Bar Association Law Students

Check out the ABA for Law Students site to learn about events, competitions, meetings, grants, and initiatives that are all available to law students. ABA Law students also offers career resources, practice area guides, news, and student leadership opportunities.

The Girl's Guide to Law School

This three-part resource provides you with tools to get accepted to law school, succeed while you're there, and help you get a job when you graduate. Check out their personal statement Q &A and LSAT tips. You can also view their guides to acing your law school exams, getting a summer job, and securing a job upon graduation.

The Equal Justice Works Blog on Huffington Post

The Equal Justice Works blog on the Huffington Post blog can help keep you updated on the latest in managing student loan debt, public interest law, and pro bono work! We usually post twice a month, so make sure you bookmark the page!